

PRIVACY POLICY

1. The Privacy Policy lays out the relevant data processing techniques employed by Riskdisk in delivering the service to you.
2. You will be requested to supply information to us in using the web site and we will collect details of this and from any emails you may send us. These will be the only personal details we collect and store from you. In order to provide the web service, we, like all web service providers you use, will be aware of your IP address.
3. We employ a range of measures including encryption and coding to take all reasonable steps to protect your personal information and that we receive and store your details confidentially and securely.
4. The information you supply to us will be used for providing the service subscribed for, or a demonstration of it to you, responding to your enquiries, informing you of additions or amendments to the service, and invoicing you.
5. We will only disclose your personal information if required by law to the Police, the Government, the Data Protection Commissioner, the Office of Fair Trading and if required under a contract with an information supplier or bank.
6. We may use 'Cookies' in providing service to you. A cookie is a small amount of data which is sent to your browser. Your browser may store it on your PC. You can control whether or not you wish your browser to do so. If you do not accept cookies on your PC, there may be restrictions in the service you receive.
7. Transmitting information over the internet uses telecommunications and computer processing outside of our control. By using our service through your browser you acknowledge that we are entitled to use the internet to deliver service to you.